Specification

1. The abstract of the disclosure is objected to for including legal terms (see below).

Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "comprising", "means", and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase "tire wheel(s)" should be replaced with the term --wheel(s)-- throughout the specification, including the abstract for grammatical clarity.

Appropriate correction is required.

4. A substitute specification, including the abstract, in proper idiomatic English and in compliance with 37 CFR 1.52(a) and (b) is required. The substitute specification filed must be accompanied by a statement that it contains no new matter.

Claim Objections

5. Claims 1-5 are objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase "tire wheel" should be replaced with the term --wheel-- throughout the claims for grammatical clarity.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

7. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 is indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear how the rim body portion is "extending" from the join position. No directional indicators (i.e. axially, radially, etc.) have been provided to clearly describe this limitation. Claim 1 is further indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what is actually being claimed by the phrase "a join position" in line 5. Claim 1 is further indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what is actually being claimed by the phrase "on the other side" in lines 6-7 and 9. The phrase "the equal section" in line 8 of claim 1 is indefinite due to the fact that multiple "equal sections" have been previously set forth, and it is therefore unclear which "equal section" is being referred to by the phrase of line 8. Claim 1 is further indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what is actually being claimed by the phrase "being thinner in average rim thickness" in line 9.

Claim 3 is indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what the phrase "the other side" is claiming in line 3.

Claims 4-5 is indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what is actually being claimed. The phrase "the other side" in both claims is unclear.

8. The claims are generally narrative and indefinite, failing to conform with current U.S. practice. They appear to be a literal translation into English from a foreign document and are replete with grammatical and idiomatic errors.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

9. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

10. Claims 1 and 4-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Manabe (JP 10-278501). As best understood, Manabe shows a rim will all of the physical features as set forth in the above claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

11. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

12. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manabe (JP 10-278501). Manabe contains all of the limitations as set forth in paragraph 10 above, but does not disclose the relationship of rim thicknesses of adjacent equal sections.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the rim of Manabe with adjacent equal portions having average thicknesses of 0.5mm or more, generally being between 3-8mm on the disk side and 2-3mm on the flange side, in order to reduce the thickness (and thus weight) of the rim while still retaining suitable strength properties to prevent the rim from failing during use.

Conclusion

13. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The references are considered to show rims having different thicknesses in adjacent portions. For example, Guimard et al shows a rim as described above.
